Frequently Asked Questions

The Service

- + How do I sign up?
- + Do I have any financial risk?
- × How long does it take for a case to be solved?
It takes several weeks or a few months for the search engine to do a "deep dive" to find your work on the Internet, then it usually takes a few months from initial contact with the infringer to settling a case and receiving payment. Cases worth litigating might take longer, they could potentially be over a year, but we calculate their value and will discuss all long terms plans with you.

Our reverse image search leverages the technology of multiple search companies. This provides the best possible results. We then have humans review the results before we present them to you with a recommendation to pursue the claim. We value your time and do not want to waste your time having to review results for claims that are not pursuable or false-positives.
